

Your project report should read like a conference paper, and will have a length of 10 pages (11 pt font) excluding the cover page. It should contain

1. A cover page with the title and the names of the team members
2. A section on objective of the project
3. A project description containing the detailed methods used, how you tested it, the results obtained, graphs, tables etc It should contain a pointer pointing to your webpage containing the codes and other details. You should do justice to the fact that the project is worth 30% of the final grade.
4. Analysis of the results, (graphs, tables etc), along with what went wrong (if any) and lessons learned.
5. A list of references in the proper format.
